The search continues for a CEO for the YFN Management Services. Operating board member Jenny Touchie said "we're currently in negotiations for a short term agreement with an agency that would provide temporary leadership of the operating entities through the end of September and assist in recruiting and hiring a new CEO." In the meantime it's business as usual for the various tourism-related businesses that are already getting bookings and advertising for their summer staff.

Tyson Touchie has handed in his resignation as the manager of Economic Development. Although he has not given a definite date for his departure, he said, he will wait until a new CEO has been hired and he has had time to update the new person on all the economic development activities the nation is involved in. He cited personal reasons for his planned departure, noting that he has always wanted to open a business of his own, and after hosting media groups at Wya Resort, he knew that was his calling. He isn't sure exactly what that new business will be but he does know that it will be hosting visitors, and telling stories about the culture.

"We've done a few media where freelance writers stay at the lodges for free and then write about their experiences," he noted. The FAM or familiarity tours as they are known are a common marketing tool used by small communities to highlight tourism. Wya has been in news articles in Canada and the United States and "We will see this summer how that translates into bookings," he added.

Occupancy is climbing at the Lodges and the yurts, Tyson said. To date there are six weddings booked this year to date and that was the total amount last year. "It's less inclusive than some places, but we have the intimacy of having your own beach," Tyson pointed out.

"A 30 per cent increase has been the standard for all our businesses each year other than the Feast House," Tyson commented. The Feast House will be the subject of a review by a restaurant specialist. Tyson said the YFN Management Services realizes there is a need for better service and better food.

Fisheries LP

On April 1 the Fisheries department will revert back to the government, under the Land's and Assets department. This change prompted the fisheries' manager, Alan McCarthy to tender his resignation as well. Last year the government obtained a legal opinion to ensure that Mr. McCarthy was not breaching rules by being employed by the Fisheries Department and the opinion was that as long as Fisheries was under the authority of YFN Management Services there would be no conflict. Now, however, that fisheries will be back in the government fold, there would be a conflict. Mr. McCarthy said he would rather serve as a Legislature Member than as fishery officer if given the choice. Tyson was not clear on whether or not any commercial fishing licenses would revert to the government.

Emergency planning to keep people safe

Raymond Haipee is volunteering his time to make the community a safer place. He has been spearheading an emergency planning effort which includes the evacuation process for the community in case of an emergency such as an earthquake or tsunami. Recently due to health reasons he has had to pull back from managing this effort but after 40 years of emergency management volunteer service he said it's difficult to remove himself completely. Still, he will be looking for one of his team members to take over the lead in the next few weeks.

He has organized a team of volunteers including Leo Touchie, Art Williams and Geraldine Touchie, who will be instrumental in organizing their neighbourhoods to safely evacuate anyone who cannot make their own way to the safe zone which is the new community centre. The Community Centre is above the 20 meter elevation mark which is considered safe for tsunami. The gym would be used to house people and the community kitchen, able to feed people. The community centre has a generator which could keep the power going for a few days so it would be the emergency centre.

Raymond is working to get pagers and scanners for the emergency team members and said he hopes to work with Parks Canada for emergency preparedness programs.

"We are currently not trained to handle emergencies. For now everyone is calling my place and my phone is jammed. If we have pagers

I can call the three team leaders and let them know we have an earthquake and need to evacuate. Raymond said they are hoping to make use of community vans for people who do not have rides and, he said, the team will be working with other emergency volunteers such as the fire department and First Responders, to organize evacuations.

Recently three citizens took the EOC Level 3 Course to learn the support level and responsibilities of managing an Emergency Operations Centre. The course topics included: organizational structure, reporting structure, the interface between operations and planning sections, resource management and incident and status reporting. Prerequisite to the Level 3 course is the Emergency Operations Centre Essentials which teaches the basics of supporting the needs of response departments and agencies during emergencies and disasters.

Yuulu?it?ath citizen Raymond Haipee has been organizing an emergency response team; he is now looking for someone to step into the lead role.

Citizens assist in re-building the stairs to Halfmoon Bay

Two Yuulu?il?ath citizens, Delaney Clayton and Joe Thompson recently spent three weeks learning about trail construction and then put their skills into action with the re-construction of the stairs to Halfmoon Bay in the Pacific Rim National Reserve. Anyone who has hiked down this trail (off of Willowbrae), knows that replacing that staircase would be quite a feat.

“Our goal when working with these types of training programs with our partners is to offer training and skill building programs that will be a value and benefit to the participants and nations said Jenny Touchie, Acting Aboriginal Liaison PRNPR.

“We offered an alternative trail building course in October (attended by Nick Touchie and Greg Louie) and this course was planned to continue building on the knowledge of trail building and planning,” she added.

The three week paid training opportunity offered citizens skills in planning, theory, material estimation equations, material preparation, disassembly and construction. There were 13 participants from seven nations including: Yuulu?il?ath, Tla-o-qui-aht, Toquaht, Uchucklesaht, Huu-ay-aht, Ditidaht and Pacheedaht.

“In addition to the structures training program the participants were also assigned work with a trails analyst who is currently completing a feasibility study for connecting the trail from Halfmoon Bay over the Wya Point Resort. This study assesses proposed routes, areas of consideration and concern, potential feature highlights, mitigation and protection from human impact on sensitive sites, visitor safety and using a GPS to place waypoints on a map. This type of work allowed participants to see the entire process of trail building from planning to construction,” Jenny said.

Following the three week training program participants and Parks trail crew were treated to lunch and the participants were given certificates by the course instructor Robert Campbell and First Nations Program Manager, Matthew Payne. Delaney wasn't able to make the certificate presentation due to an injury.

“Overall, it was a great success and we've received a lot of positive feedback from the participants,” Jenny commented. “We hope to continue building on various training opportunities and strengthening that connection with our First Nations Partners in future training programs,” she added.

Thornton Motel re-build on track for spring completion

The Thornton Motel construction is moving right along and should be wrapped up in time for the busy summer season. The motel was ravaged by fire two summers ago and the re-build has taken some time partly due to disagreements over what insurance would cover as part of the re-build. The entire middle block of the motel, which contained 12 units, is being re-constructed.

Recently the Executive branch of the Legislature agreed to a request from Economic Development, for the government to provide financial backing to the tune of $923,795. in order to complete the construction. Executive Member Larry Baird said he was concerned the government was being asked to cover the loan but President Charles McCarthy said that Economic Development wasn't asking for the funds from the government, just that the government back the loan and it was noted that the motel has the ability to service the debt.

Along with the re-construction funds will also be needed to buy new furniture and other upgrades such as a laundry facilities upgrade is being discussed now that the Motel is taking care of the laundry for the Wya Point Resort too.

Construction of the Thornton Motel is moving along and is expected to be open in time for the busy summer season.

Jaden Touchie helps senior team rise to top in the province

After 41 games, countless practices, 7 tournaments Jaden Touchie has now completed his first year Senior Basketball as a Grade 10 student.

He was the only Grade 10 to make the Oak Bay senior basketball team and ended up being a starter. In the final game he had the third most minutes of all the players with 990 minutes this season, behind only two others who are both in Grade 12. He was one of only three players on the team to play every single game—41 in all.

The team won three tournaments and placed second in two others and placed 6th in the provincials. The team also won the City Championships in Victoria and Island Championships. The team started the year ranked about 15th overall in the province and by the end of the season the team was ranked number one in the province. Most of the year the team was in the top five teams in the province.

Jaden played his heart out every game. A true testament to his commitment in the final two games of the year he had his best games this season. He had 22 pts, 9 rbs, 5 Asts, 2 stls in a huge win over Lord Tweedsmuir. Then Jaden played Burnaby south and got 16pts, 4 rbs, 1ast, 1 stl against a very good team.

With Jaden's play this year he has had many people admire his skills, notably the top spring / summer League team called Drive Bounce Elite and they play in the USA. Jaden has been scouted and invited to play with this team and will be playing 12 tournaments in the USA and Canada. He will play in Las Vegas, Anaheim, Portland, Seattle, Vancouver and Bellevue. Being invited to play with this team is a huge accomplishment and it's great to see Jaden's hard work is paying off. Jaden is setting his sights on getting a scholarship and attending the University of Oregon, and some day he hopes to play in the professional leagues.

Jaden is also a great student earning six A's and two B's on his last report card. Jaden's Mom Katy said, "this kid amazes me every day. We couldn't be prouder, Go Jaden Go!" Besides his parents Katy and Cameron, Jaden also has a whole cheering section from Hitacu, including his Touchie relatives here...and one of his biggest fans, Grandma Bernice, who loves to watch him play.

Jaden Touchie will be playing basketball with an elite basketball team in the United States for a spring summer league. The Grade 10 student helped his team at Oak Bay rise to the top team in BC. Photo courtesy of Melody Charlie.

Updating our Constitution

Yuulu?il?ath Citizens will be asked to vote in favor of proposed amendments to the Yuulu?il?ath Constitution in the May 2015 Election.

Add

- Reference to Maanulth Treaty it has been suggested that a section be added to the constitution which outlines the role of the Maa-nulth Treaty in reference to law-making authority and lands.
- Roles of Elected Officials the Constitution needs greater clarity to identify the distinct roles and powers of the Legislature, Executive and the President.
- Impossible Time frames for draft budget and audited financials; lets set time frames we can reach. The time-frame for filling a vacant Legislature seat is also unreasonably short.
- Clarify Treaty Rights for citizens vs. those enrolled under the Maanulth Treaty; who is eligible for citizenship also needs clarification.

Change

Delete

Why Vote Yes?

Voting YES will help your government by making the goals outlined in our constitution, attainable. These changes won't make a big difference in the lives of individuals but they will help us do our job better and better reflect the reality of Treaty Government.

The proposed changes listed here are some but not all the changes that have been reviewed by the Treaty Implementation Committee, the Legislature and the Executive Branch of the Legislature. We encourage you to read through all of the changes being proposed; the Legal Briefing Note is included in this package and also Constitution with Track Changes showing all proposed amendments.

Thank you for taking the time to read this brief and we would appreciate your VOTE YES on election day, May 13, 2015.

CATERING

Catering Applications due on April 1, 2015

Raven Gagnon earns her black belt

Raven Gagnon recently earned her black belt in Taekwondo. The 15-year-old is a Yuulu?il?ath citizen, living in Port Alberni. Raven has taken her training and has competed in Port Alberni under Master Jim Ratte.

She has won numerous medals for the martial arts and received her official certificate and card from Korea, to acknowledge her achieving the Black Belt status.

Raven has been taking Taekwondo for a few years and trains three times a week in Port Alberni. She has started referring at tournaments and helping her younger sister Cydney also train for an upcoming Taekwondo tournament in Parksville.

Her grandparents are Luke and Delores Touchie.

Traditional camp in Effingham Inlet ready for use by citizens

Dennis Touchie and Levi Touchie have now completed their contract to build a traditional camp at Effingham inlet. The pair worked throughout the fall and winter months in the remote location, getting a dock in place and building a cabin which will be utilized by Yuulu?il?ath members for camping.

According to Dennis the cabin still needs some finishing work, to build bunks for sleeping, but there is a table to eat at, the windows and door are in, there is a small deck and lots of room for sleeping.

The pair were hoping to complete the project, including putting board and batten on the outside of the cabin and constructing an outhouse, but the funds have run out. According to Dennis there is about another week's worth of work to be done.

Raven Gagnon was recently recognized for receiving her black belt in Taekwondo. The 15-year-old is a Yuulu?il?ath citizen, living in Port Alberni. She is shown here with Taekwondo Master Jim Ratte.
